To Whom it may concern,
I am greatly dissapointed that although Microsoft was found guilty of violating the law, the U.S. Justice Department has essentially let them off with a slap on the hand. Microsoft has shown in the past, that it has no respect for the law or court rulings. It will continue to stifle innovation, crush competition, and charge whatever prices it wants for it's products.

I don't want to believe it, but it really looks like Microsoft bought their way out of legal trouble.

Thank you for reading this.
